Michigan Harbors Guide

This publication is designed to offer information, location and amenities of Michigan’s many harbors. It provides an aerial photograph and short description of each harbor to offer you a view of what to expect while traveling on Michigan’s waters. Visit www.michigan.gov/boating for an online version of this publication, where the most recent facility information is available as changes occur. Simply print the updated harbor page and place in this binder. This guide is not intended for navigational use. Please refer to your lake charts as a guide for navigational information.

Select harbors can be reserved through a reservation system. Reservations may be made for all dates up to six months in advance of arrival.

For reservations call: 800-44-PARKS

Missions and Commissions

Department of Natural Resources

Mission Statement

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is committed to the conservation, protection, management, use and enjoyment of the state's natural and cultural resources for current and future generations.

Natural Resources Commission

The Natural Resources Commission (NRC) is the governing body for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR). In providing a strategic framework for the DNR to effectively manage the state's resources, the NRC works closely with a broad cross-section of constituencies, including the Michigan State Waterways Commission, to establish and continuously improve natural resources management policy. The NRC conducts monthly, public meetings in locations throughout Michigan. Citizens are encouraged to participate in these public forums. For dates and locations, please visit www.michigan.gov/nrc.

Michigan State Waterways Commission

Mission Statement

The Michigan State Waterways Commission works to provide safe public access to the Great Lakes and inland waters of the State of Michigan. Working with partners, the commission oversees the use of dedicated funds provided by boaters for the acquisition, construction and operation of the infrastructure needed to support boating.

The Michigan State Waterways Commission was created by Act 320 of 1947 and transferred to the Department of Conservation on January 1, 1966. The commission members are appointed to three-year terms by the governor, with the advise and consent of the senate. Upon expiration of a term, a member may continue to service until reappointed or a successor is appointed. For more detailed information about the commission, visit www.michigan.gov/dnr, and then, to the left, click on "Commissions, Boards & Committees" and then "Waterways Commission."

Sport Fish Restoration Program

The Federal Aid in Sport Fish Restoration Program provided funding for this publication.

Welcome to the Great Lakes

Boating on the Great Lakes is an experience you won't soon forget. These waters have charmed and captured the spirit of boaters for centuries. Islands are sprinkled throughout the great bodies of water, calling for our attention and exploration. It's the Great Lakes that define Michigan...and give our state its name.

"Michigama," meaning 'large lake,' is a word derived from the Chippewa language. It was applied to the entire Great Lakes region by Native Americans and then by explorers who first traversed these great waters in the sixteenth century. Over time, the early residents added more names and sorted out the local geography, but the name Michigan remained as a reference to the entire region and one of our Great Lakes.

Today, we know Michigan as "The Great Lakes State," and boaters from around the globe are discovering the wonderful experiences that these great bodies of water afford. The Great Lakes are some of the largest freshwater lakes in the world!

The Harbor Program

The state of Michigan began its Great Lakes Harbors Program in 1947 when the legislature created the Michigan State Waterways Commission. The Commission was granted authority and supporting funds to create a marine highway along the 3,000 miles of Great Lakes shoreline. From 1947 to 1964, the Waterways Commission developed 83 harbors of refuge, enabling tens of thousands of boaters to encircle Michigan using safe harbors and overnight hospitality. In 1966, when the new state constitution went into effect, the Waterways Commission became part of the Department of Conservation. It has since become part of the Department of Natural Resources. Today, the number of safe harbors has grown as the Waterways Commission continues its mission to provide safe public access to the Great Lakes and inland waters of this state.

The program's goal is to locate harbors so that no boater will ever be more than 15 shoreline miles from safety. In a few places, it has not yet been possible to meet this goal, but the maps on pages 20-22 show how extensive this network of harbors has become.

Funding

Boaters have paid for much of this harbor network through taxes on marine fuel purchases and boat registration fees. Under the Waterways Grant-In-Aid Program, local units of government are given grant funds for construction of facilities.

In addition, the federal government supports the harbor program through funds allocated to the Dingell-Johnson Fund, administered by the Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Department of the Interior, for the development of boating facilities designed to match local contributions.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers played an important role in the initial development and actual construction of the majority of Michigan's harbor network. The federal/state/local program of cooperation is aimed primarily at the development of facilities. Responsibility for continuing operation and maintenance lies with local communities, and so reasonable fees are charged for the upkeep and operation of docks and piers, showers, restrooms and other facilities at these harbors.

Only where local resources are unable to support such facilities does the state consider assuming these responsibilities. As a result, the state of Michigan operates only 19 of Michigan's harbor facilities.

Fees

Even though local units of government operate most of the harbor facilities, their transient slip fees must not exceed the basic rate schedule adopted by the Michigan State Waterways Commission, unless the commission gives specific approval.

The current fee schedule is based on the overall length of the vessel, which includes bow and stern projections. These rates include water and electrical service when available.

Docking Space

Harbor Rules: There is no “right of the sea” that automatically permits a boater to utilize a boat slip. Slips are rented and controlled by the administering unit in the same manner as a person controls their own property. Because of this, following harbor rules and regulations are important for the continuation of dock space rental. In the end, it’s about good sense, common courtesy and an enjoyable harbor visit for all.

Transient Boating: In each harbor, dock space is allocated exclusively for use by transient boaters. The Michigan State Waterways Commission reserves the right to regulate the use of docking spaces at harbors to assure availability of slips for transient watercraft.

In locations where seasonal rentals are permitted, communities have the right to rent transient-use slips when the seasonal renter is on cruise. This increases the availability of transient slips. Dock space is rented on a first-come, first-served basis. Reservations may be taken at various harbors and it’s best to call ahead for an available slip. (See “Reservations” on page one.) Harbor phone numbers and other pertinent information are featured on individual harbor pages.

Maximum stay: As a general rule, transient boaters may remain at the public dock for seven consecutive days. Boaters may use the dock again 48 hours after they have vacated. During periods of light traffic, that seven-day rule may be waived. At Mackinac Island State Harbor, the maximum stay during busy times is four consecutive days.

Radio Communications

Many harbors have VHF-FM radio communications available at the public dock. These radio base stations operate on assigned frequencies of 156.8 MHz (Channel 16) and 156.45 MHz (Channel 9). Channel 9 is the working channel for non-commercial watercraft.

New radios are equipped with frequency synthesis, but all boaters are urged to equip their onboard radio with Channel 9, 16 and 22 (157.1 MHz – Coast Guard working channel) capability.

Channel 16 is the international distress, safety and calling channel. In accordance with FCC regulations, absolutely no routine communications may be conducted on Channel 16.

Harbor Arrival Procedures and Courtesy

ARRIVAL PROCEDURES

No-wake Arrival: When entering the protected area of the harbor, please keep your boat's movement reasonably close to no-wake speed. Once you've arrived, please proceed to a point near the service area or harbor attendant structure on the dock, request a slip assignment and then move to the boat slip. Following this order will ensure docking assistance from an attendant and assure you that you are in an available and serviced slip.

Dock Attendants: When docking, please give specific instructions to the dock attendant and they will be happy to help. In their training, they learn that the boater is in charge of his/her boat at all times and they (the attendant) are to react to commands, but not to anticipate them. If you need advice on the type and number of lines that you should use in the docking process, don't hesitate to ask. Likewise, feel free to request assistance in placing the lines. These services are all part of the dock attendant's duties and they are happy to assist.

Grill-free Docks: In most harbors, grills can not be used because they are a fire hazard. The majority of docks contain timber decking. Sparks from a grill can also damage sails and start fires on boats. Please check with a harbor attendant prior to using a grill on the dock. In most instances, grilling areas have been established on shore and reasonably close to the dock.

COURTESY

Arrival Speed: Since most harbors are relatively small, wakes can be quite pronounced on most boats moored at the dock. Please reduce your speed at several intervals during your approach to the harbor to prevent these wakes.

Noise: Because many harbors are removed from highways, railroads, airports and similar areas, there is little background noise. As a result, the noise from boats or from boaters on the dock can be very apparent. Many boaters cruise with their families, which often include very young children who go to bed early. Thank you for keeping your noise level low.

Dogs: Some harbors have dog walks or the equivalent, but most do not. Either way, please clean up after your pet, place the contents in trash containers and enjoy your walk!

Fueling

Cautionary Procedures: Taking on fuel at a dock can be dangerous if caution isn't taken beforehand. Please extinguish all fires, close all vents and place the metal nozzle firmly against the edge of the fuel tank intake pipe. Please follow any special fueling instructions given to you by a dock attendant. He or she has safety in mind.

Diesel: Diesel fuel is available at many but not all public docks. At some docks, diesel delivery can be arranged through the dock attendant when advance notice is given.

Credit Card Use: At most state-operated harbors, Visa, MasterCard and Discover will be accepted for all services. However, when fueling your boat, some harbors accept only credit cards of the company providing the fuel. Prior to fueling your boat, please make certain that your credit card can be honored. Some harbors accept dockage fees on credit cards only when fuel is purchased.

Navigational Charts

Boaters are asked to please use charts for the areas in which they boat. By having the information presented on charts, many unmarked hazards can be avoided. Charts are available from many commercial marinas or by mail order from agencies on page 14.

Harbor Location Information

The latitude and longitude for each harbor entrance is printed on each individual harbor page, which begins on page 23, for electronic location systems use. In most cases, the stated location is in the lake near the breakwater entrance. For each harbor that is located up a dredged channel, two locations are given: the lakeward end of the entrance channel and the marina itself. For Bay City (Saginaw River), the listed channel entrance location is where the buoyed shipping channel intersects the 12-foot depth line on the chart.

Boaters are encouraged not to rely solely on any one navigational method or technology, including the location information provided in this guide.

Providing or Upgrading Pump-Outs and Dump Stations

FEDERAL CLEAN VESSEL ACT OF 1992

A federal program, initiated in Michigan in 1994, provides additional pump-out and dump station opportunities in the state's coastal waters.

Public and private marinas have the opportunity to secure new pump-outs and dumb stations or upgrade their existing facilities thanks to the Clean Vessel Act (CVA) Boat Pump-out Grant Program, a federally subsidized, grant-in-aid program. This program was created through enactment of the Federal Clean Vessel Act (Public Law 102-587, Subtitle F) of 1992, and is administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service through state agencies. The act authorized the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to make grants to states to construct/renovate pump-outs and dump stations and for implementing associated education programs.

The grant funding for the CVA Program comes from the Sport Fish Restoration account of the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund, commonly known as the Wallop-Breaux Fund. In conjunction with the grant program, participating coastal states conduct a comprehensive survey and plan to determine existing capabilities of recreational boating facilities for marine sewage waste disposal. It also provides information needed to evaluate current and projected market needs in order to upgrade and expand availability of pump-outs and dump stations.

All pump-outs and dump stations provided for under the CVA Boat Pump-out Grant Program are available for public use. A list of all marinas receiving grants, for the installation of pump-outs or dump stations is available by contacting the Michigan Department of Natural Resources at 517-241-4934.

Clean Marina Program

The elimination and reduction of pollutants, nutrients and general refuse at marinas and boat launches is the mission for Michigan's Clean Marina Program. The voluntary program is aimed at preserving Michigan's aquatic gems. In order to receive designation as a Clean Marina, participants complete a 10-step process including training, a self-evaluation checklist, a site visit and evaluation. Clean Marinas set the standard in environmental responsibility for other marinas in the state. To learn more about this program, visit the www.michigan.gov/harbors or call 517-241-5179.

Commercial Fishing Nets

Great Lakes' anglers and boaters may encounter commercial trap nets, gill nets and hook lines. All state-licensed or Native American, commercial gear are marked with floats and or staff/flag combinations. Please give wide berth to any markers, since anchor lines may extend several hundred feet in any direction from the floats or flags and along the length of the gear.

Please refrain from tampering with commercial fishing gear; it's illegal. Removal or destruction of marker buoys and flags or other disturbance of gear often results in the waste of a valuable resource, since the nets continue to catch fish. They also can create safety problems for others on the water.

These diagrams show how you can avoid entanglement of fishing gear or boat propellers.

Fish Disease

Viral Hemorrhagic Septicemia virus (VHSV), which does not affect humans in any way, is a fish disease first confirmed in the Great Lakes in 2005 when it caused a large fish kill in Lake Ontario. The disease was brought here by ballast water from large freighters between 2000-2002. Currently, it appears to have a very spotty distribution in Michigan. It has been detected two inland lakes in Clare and Washtenaw Counties. The virus has been detected in 25 fish species in the Great Lakes region, including walleye, muskellunge, largemouth bass, bluegills, black crappie, Chinook salmon, whitefish, freshwater drum and gizzard shad. VHSV has never been found in any Department of Natural Resources fish hatchery. Fishing regulations are in effect to reduce the spread of this viral pathogen. See the Michigan Fishing Guide for complete details or visit www.michigan.gov/fishing under Managing Michigan's Fisheries.

Help Prevent Invasive Plants and Animals

Michigan's waters are threatened by many non-native invasive plants and animals such as the zebra mussel, round goby, sea lamprey, Eurasian ruffe, Eurasian watermilfoil, rusty crayfish and spiny water flea. A number of species are now knocking at the door, including several species of Asian carp traveling up the Chicago diversion. Snakehead fish are already found in many other Midwest states. These species and others are harmful to recreational fishing and do extensive economic and natural resource damage.

Anglers and boaters can help prevent the spread of fish diseases and invasive aquatic species by taking the following steps:

- Clean boats, trailers, and other equipment thoroughly between fishing trips to keep from transporting undesirable fish pathogens and organisms from one water body to another. Take special care to clean fishing equipment when you are done fishing known locations of fish diseases. A light bleach solution is an excellent disinfectant for cleaning your equipment.
- After cleaning, allow boats, trailers and other equipment to dry for four to six hours in the sun.
- Refrain from moving fish or fish parts from one body of water to another.
- Refrain from releasing live bait into any water body.
- Handle fish as gently as possible if you intend to release them, and release them as quickly as possible.
- Refrain from hauling the fish for long periods in live wells if you intend to release them.
- Report unusual numbers of dead or dying fish to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources at 517-373-1280.
- Educate other anglers about measures to prevent the spread of fish diseases and other aquatic nuisance.

Natural resource managers are concerned about introduction of new species and have set up an Angler's Monitoring Network to report any discoveries. The network is an informal system of information, education and reporting that provides a way for all anglers in the state to report on any new introduction of non-native fish to Michigan waters. Please save and report unidentified fish to the nearest DNR

Customer Service Center. If you have any questions, contact an Customer Service Center or visit www.michigan.gov/deq-anglers-monitoring-network.

Boating Smart from the Start

Michigan is truly a boating paradise. With four of the five Great Lakes bordering its shores and more than 11,000 inland lakes, it's no surprise that Michigan is one of the top states for boat ownership and recreation. Safe, responsible, courteous boating is everyone's responsibility. Boater education is available through local sheriffs' departments, the Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadron, local boat dealers and more.

For safe and enjoyable boating, it's important for all water sports enthusiasts to observe these safety guidelines:

- Wear a life jacket - 75 percent of boating fatalities involve drowning.
- Make sure your boat is properly equipped and your equipment is in good working order. In addition to all legally required equipment, such as life jackets and fire extinguishers, always carry a first-aid kit, nautical charts and an anchor. Make sure your navigation lights are working properly.
- Avoid drinking alcohol - Nearly half of all boating accidents involve alcohol. Studies show that passengers are 10 times more likely to fall overboard when they have consumed alcohol.
- File a float plan - Always let a family member or friend on shore know the who, what, when and where of your trip. Include phone numbers for the local sheriff or U.S. Coast Guard in the event you don't return when expected.
- Maintain a sharp lookout – Stay alert for other boats, swimmers, skiers and objects in the water. This is especially true when operating in crowded waterways, at night and during conditions of restricted visibility.
- Carry a marine radio or cell phone - Be prepared to call for help in case you are involved in an accident, your boat becomes disabled, or you otherwise need assistance. Make sure a cell phone is fully charged, but be aware that there are often gaps in cell phone coverage on the water.

Discover Michigan Fishing

Michigan offers some of the finest freshwater fishing in the world with more than 38,000 square miles of Great Lakes water, 3,000 miles of shoreline, 36,000 miles of rivers and streams and over 11,000 inland lakes. All you need is a fishing rod, tackle, bait and a Michigan Fishing License.

Purchase and print your license online at www.michigan.gov/fishing. Look for the "Buy Your License" button.

And then have a great time!

Recreation Passport

The Recreation Passport is an easy, affordable way for residents to enjoy and support outdoor recreation opportunities in Michigan.

For a small annual fee Michigan motorists get daily access to state parks, recreation areas, state forest campgrounds, non-motorized state trailhead parking and state boat launches. In addition, Recreation Passport holders can experience real savings at businesses and retailers that participate in the Passport Perks discount program.

Michigan residents can purchase the Recreation Passport by checking "YES" when renewing a license plate through the Secretary of State. You can also purchase the Recreation Passport by mail, kiosk, online at www.expresssos.com or at branch offices. The Recreation Passport is valid until the next license plate renewal date.

Nonresidents can purchase the Recreation Passport at any state park or recreation area or through the Michigan e-Store at www.michigan.gov/estore.

Learn more about this creative way of sustaining Michigan's outdoor recreation and natural resources at www.michigan.gov/recreationpassport. For information on Passport Perks shopping discounts or how businesses and retailers can enroll in the program, visit www.michigan.gov/passportperks.

Michigan Harbors (West Coast)

World-class dunes and beaches line the shores of Lake Michigan, facing picture perfect sunsets on Michigan's west coast. Vibrant harbor towns and communities offer unique opportunities for the traveling boater from shopping to recreational activities.

Michigan Harbors (Upper Peninsula)

Often described as “God’s country,” the Upper Peninsula (UP) of Michigan is a one-of-a-kind experience that can’t be duplicated anywhere else in the world. Large expanses of primitive, untouched landscape will give you the experience that explorers had when discovering this northern paradise.

Friendly harbors and UP culture welcome the traveler to a world where time stands still.

Lake Huron

Notes

Michigan's greenest harbor on the Great Lakes, Straits State Harbor is Michigan's most eco-friendly harbor with eight wind turbines that are anticipated to produce a substantial amount of the electrical energy used to run the harbor. Located just across the Straits of Mackinac from Mackinac Island State Harbor, this harbor gives boaters an opportunity to enjoy the best of both harbors. This harbor is Clean Marina certified.

Mackinac Island State Harbor

Upper Peninsula

Lake Huron

Notes

Mackinac Island State Harbor, Clean Marina certified, is the destination harbor of Northern Michigan. Due to the Port Huron/Chicago sail boat races, reservations are limited from mid-June to late July. It is also a working harbor. As it is not completely protected, it can be a bit choppy due to ferry boat traffic.

Lime Island State Harbor

St. Marys River

Notes

Lime Island State Recreation Area is a 980-acre, wooded paradise located in the St. Mary's River. Lime Island received its name from limestone deposits that were dug from the island and processed into cement as early as the 1730s. Today, the island is known for hiking, excellent walleye and herring fishing and relaxation while watching Great Lakes freighters pass by.

Copper Harbor State Harbor

Lake Superior

Notes

Enjoy Copper Harbor State Harbor, located on Lake Superior at the north end of the Keweenaw Peninsula. Shopping and activities are only a short walk away, and boat passage from the harbor to historic Copper Harbor Light-house complex is available daily through the summer season (fee charged). The lighthouse complex features a restored 1848 lightkeeper's dwelling, 1866 lighthouse, 1933 steel light tower and an interpretive trail.
